BECAUSE OF THE GOOD ONES

Uh, I can't be the one who hates bullying, that's annoying and nonsense. What do bullies get when they bully somebody? Nothing. So, why do they feel like they have to bully somebody? That's weird. I never got bullied, but some of my friends got bullied. They say that's making them sad. So, I decided to do something, to try to stop them. Yes, maybe that can be weird and funny to hear, but I've tried, and I did...It was a new day at the school, it was of course boring. All the boys in my class were fighting, and the girls were talking, gossiping, laughing at the boys... Now, that's the time... I walked to bullies, they were gossiping, like every time. I said to them, "Meet me at the back of the school, after lunchtime". They didn't refuse this, that was weird but good I met with them at the back of the school, I wasn't scared. It was easy for me to talk with them. To say how bullying is wrong. So, when they came, I held their hand, and started to talk to them about how bullying is wrong. Bullying is not allowed in our school, if I wanted to, I could get them expelled from school. But as we know, punishments are nonsense. One of them said "It's revenge, he made me sad, so I will make him feel regret, I'll make him feel ashamed". I said "Who?" and she said "My dad..." That was sad... I couldn't believe it, how? On this day, I just talked with them nicely. The next day, I saw them talking with each other naturally for real. This shows how bullies can be normal people again. Not all bad people chose to be bad, they had to be bad, because of good people...
